Good morning, Sarah,

I have attached a couple of photos here showing the carport and metal building we have built on the property. The metal building was approved; however, the carport somehow slipped through the cracks on y'all's end. The use is basically just a two-car parking spot cover, attached to the metal building. You will see everything is built to match the metal building and existing home as best as possible. This is the only accessory building on the property. When the original metal building was approved all the proper paperwork was submitted to show layout and location on the property. I have attached here again. If I missed anything, it should also still be in the original permit filings. This is a recently completed project. Please let me if there is anything else required, thank you!
