Commissioner Brymer asked if all other requirements had been met for the building; CDD Smith responded that staff had reviewed a concept plan but not a full site plan. Commissioner Will asked about stacking conflicts with the nearby school and other surrounding uses. Commissioner Sagar asked about what other uses might be planned for the area marked as "other" in the tenant space, and if the additional future tenants might create a parking issue. The Commission discussed how the parking was addressed as part of the overall Center Stage planned development. Commissioner Brymer commented on the commercial elevation requirements across the city as something to consider in the future.

E-4 First Baptist Church Site Plan Amendment: CDD Smith explained that the staff report addressed nine variances, but that since the report was drafted, an additional four variances had been identified and were included in the presentation for the regular meeting. Commissioner Brensinger asked about the procedure for considering the number of variances requested. CDD Smith reviewed the summary list of variances requested. First Baptist Church, Owner/Applicant](#)

Planner Smithers presented the Site Plan Amendment with variances requested by First Baptist Church. She explained that the staff report listed nine variances, but after further review, staff identified an additional four variances for consideration by the Commission.

Scott Knox, Associate Pastor for First Baptist Church, and Jim Brown, building and grounds supervisor for the church, addressed the Commission. Mr. Brown stated that the project was the cumulation of a lot of little projects. Tom Hoover, civil engineer for the church, was there to answer any questions or concerns.

Commissioner Thompson asked about what property is actually owned by the church. Keith Sanders, Senior Pastor, stated that the church owns 303, 325 and 319 Jessie Street, currently used for storage, but does not own 313 or 345 Jessie Street. Commissioner Brymer asked staff to confirm the zoning for the church property; Planner Smithers responded that a portion of church property is zoned SF 8.4 and another portion is zoned Old Town Keller (OTK).

Commissioner Thompson began to go through each of the variances requested.

Commissioner Brensinger asked if it would be possible to combine the sports fields into one; Pastor Knox responded that some sports were played year-round and the requirements for each sport made both fields necessary.

Commissioner Brymer asked why the fields were needed; Pastor Knox replied that the school (Harvest Christian) was a small part of the need, and that the church never had outdoor space for kids.

Commissioner Apke stated he could support College Avenue and Jessie Street because of the property owned by the church, but had concerns about High Street adjacency to other residences. Mr. Brown stated the residences on High Street face east and west.

Commissioner Sagar echoed Commissioner Apke's concerns, and also expressed concerns with eliminating buffers and landscaping. She said that despite her concerns she appreciates the church putting together a plan for developing the land. She asked about seating for the multipurpose fields; Pastor Knox stated the fields would not be for competitive play, only for practice with no lights or spectating stands.

Commissioner Alvarado stated he had several concerns about the buffer and landscape variance requests.

Commissioner Will said he had some of the same concerns as his fellow Commissioners, and that it felt like with this case, some of the variances requested were a conscious choice by the applicant.

Commissioner Thompson commented on the church as part of the community and its property impact on the surrounding neighborhood as things the Commission had to weigh in its evaluation of the variances requested. He also stated that he had concerns with the fields extending through the required landscape buffers to the property lines.

Mr. Brown mentioned that to the east of church and the residences to the north is public school property.

Commissioner Brymer commented on the struggle with evaluating the proposed uses within the residential district.

Commissioner Alvarado commented that there were 13 requests in front of the Commission, but that if some were not combined it could easily be 20 requests. He also stated he did not support eliminating the trees within the buffers.

Commissioner Brensinger said he felt it might be appropriate to table the item and ask the applicant to rework their plans. Commissioner Sagar stated she thought the applicant had to agree to table; CDD Smith clarified that the Commission could table but if the applicant was not willing to rework their plan they could request the Commission move forward with taking action.

Commissioner Brensinger made a motion to table to September 27, 2022; Commissioner Brymer seconded.

Commissioner Alvarado asked if the applicant was willing to table; Mr. Hoover responded that he would like to hear comments on all of the requested variances.

CDD Smith commented that she cautioned the Commission and staff from designing the project.

Commissioner Sagar stated she did not like variances 1-3, 5, 10, 11 and was unsure on 12 and 13.

Pastor Knox asked if the discussion could be simplified to just what the Commission was comfortable with; Commissioner Thompson restated what CDD Smith had said regarding designing the project for the applicant.

Commissioner Brensinger stated that the Commission is not opposed to variances in general, but that he would like to see the applicant start with the UDC and try to adhere more closely with the guidelines, rather than asking for everything that did not meet.

A motion was made by Commissioner Ross Brensinger, seconded by Commissioner Thomas Brymer, to table Item E-4. The motion carried unanimously.
